Want to ski at the very first cross-country ski center in the country? Look no further than Stowe, Vermont. With 37 miles of groomed trails and 25 miles of backcountry trails, there's plenty to explore and enjoy. The Von Trapp family has a storied history, largely in credit to the hit Broadway show and movie, The Sound of Music. The Trapp Family Lodge is a European-style, 96-room lodge and resort over-looking the village of Stowe. Skiers can enjoy the network of cross-country trails by day and fantastic lodging, dining, and brews by night at the Lodge or in Stowe.
